BY THE GOVERNOR OF WISCONSIN.

A TASKS-DIVING PROCLAMATION.

The favor of Almighty God, the year now closing, has been preeminently for abundant harvests and rich rewards to all forms of industry. By His favor, the blessings of health, of peace and of security to person and property have been continued to us. By His favor, the honor and the glory of our State and Nation have been enhanced, and civil, religious and political liberty for ourselves and our posterity, reassured.

In grateful recognition of these and other innumerable benefits, in conforming to the recent proclamation of the President of the United States, in that behalf, I, WILLIAM F. SMITH, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint

That day, for 24th Nov. 1880, to be a day of public thanksgiving and prayer; and I recommend to all the people to observe it as such.

Our fathers were accustomed, upon similar occasions, to suspend all public and private business, and, by appropriate religious services, social festivities and charitable deeds, to testify their appreciation of Divine bounty, and their gratitude therefor. Let us follow their noble example.

"It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord," and to declare his works with rejoicing."

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the Capitol, in the city of Madison, this eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

WILLIAM F. SMITH, By the Governor: HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

Inseparably connected with the Democracy, is the word "collapse."

The Democracy is just waking up to the fact that this is a Nation with a big N.

Those Democrats are very kind who will go so far as to confess that Garfield is elected.

The government made only $260,000 net out of its money order business during the past year.

General Hancock is keeping very quiet under the circumstances. He is now thinking of the dispatches and letters he wrote.

Barium has not got far enough along with his grand yell, to assume the responsibility to tell General Hancock that he may begin on his cabinet.

The Democrats have been howling for a "majority" President for the last four years. They will have one in General Garfield, and now they want a technical President.

Wisconsin paid into the post office department during the fiscal year ending the first of the present month, $814,920, being the eleventh State in the Union in the amount of postal business transacted.

If "avarice, ingratitude, hypocrisy, and political treason" are the four vices of John Kelly, he has acquired them in the Democratic school, under the teachings of Tweed, Tilgh, and Barium. He has simply been an apt scholar in the Democratic training school.

It is reported that Mr. Chaffee's present to his daughter when she married U. S. Grant, Jr., three weeks ago, was $400,000 in 4 per cent government bonds. The young couple ought not to borrow much trouble about bread and butter, when they have a regular income of $16,000 a year on their bonds.

When Mark Twain made a speech at the Middlesex club, Boston, a few nights ago, on the election, he made this sharp hit: "And, what was the biggest triumph, the Republicans elected seven sheriffs out of eight, and that is as it should be, because criminals and officers ought to be of opposite parties."

Kansas does not do anything by halves. It is an enterprising State, full of good farms and stalwart Republicans. At the recent election it not only gave Garfield 60,000, but the Republicans permitted the Democrats to elect only two Senators out of forty, and eight Assemblymen out of 130. The Legislature of Kansas is decidedly one-sided.

Says the Memphis Avalanche, Democratic: "There are some Democratic papers in the South so wise and sagacious as to advocate a continuance of a policy that will doom the Democratic party to defeat for all time to come." This is another voice from that class of Southern papers which feel inclined to make the election of Garfield unanimous.

One of the worst answers to the 329 business we have seen comes on a printed postal card from Lancaster, Pennsylvania, to a Democrat in Janesville. The substance is that 329 full grown, long-mouthed Democrats are wanted at once to attend the funeral cortege of John Kelly, at New York. It would be a decent thing if the sending of such stuff on a postal card could be prohibited. The card is a rare specimen of political obsequy.

Nast is decidedly rich and original in this week's Harper's. One of the most touching and delicate cartoons he has drawn for some time is that representing General Hancock sitting in his room at Governor's Island, receiving the election returns. As he sits in front of the fireplace, his head bowed in disappointment, Columbia stands behind him, and says, "No change is necessary, General Hancock, we are too well satisfied with your brave record as a Union soldier." The significance of this cartoon is powerful, and tells a sadder story for the Democrats than any pen can write. The cartoon of the first page of the Harper's in which Mr. Nast represents the Republican Party alive and kicking, will be enjoyed by Democrats as well as Republicans.

Notwithstanding Hancock carries California by a little over 100 majority, one of the Democratic Presidential electors is defeated—Judge D. S. Terry—having run several hundred behind his ticket. This will give Garfield one of the California electors. It is reported that Judge Terry is the one who fought a duel with United States Senator David C. Broderick, near San Francisco, in September, 1859, in which Broderick received a mortal wound, lying three days after the fatal shot. Terry was chief justice of the supreme court of California at the time, and was a bold, bitter, and unprincipled partisan. His duel with Senator Broderick was denounced as an outrage, and public sentiment was entirely on the side of the unfortunate Broderick. Broderick was the first United States Senator ever killed in a duel, and it is said that some of the noble pillars in the old Senate chamber where he used to sit, were cut by his own father.

In speaking of the recent judicial appointments made by Governor Smith, the Evening Wisconsin pays Judge Cassady the following handsome and merited compliment: "For the position of associate justice, made vacant by the promotion of Judge Cole, Governor Smith has appointed J. B. Cassady, of Janesville. This too is an excellent appointment, as shown by the fact that the bar of Janesville, one of the foremost in the State, unanimously, without regard to party, recommended him for the position of chief justice; while throughout the State he is recognized as a gentleman of the natural abilities, and wide learning and experience in his profession."

"He is very well fitted for the position for which he has just been named. Possessing a judicial mind, with great industry and application, a love for study, and a disposition to go to the bottom of all questions that are submitted to him, and withal a most scrupulous integrity and personal purity, he will make a valuable addition to the bench, and, if his appointment be ratified at the polls, as it probably will be, we hazard nothing in predicting for him a highly honorable judicial career."

The better class of people in New York are sensible. As a rule they may appreciate Sara Bernhardt's acting, but they do not think enough of her notoriety to allow themselves to be imposed upon by ticket speculators; and hence Sara has not played to crowded houses since her first night in New York. The speculators are coming to grief which the public will be glad to hear. At first good seats were held at from $10 to $15, and many were compelled to pay this exorbitant price. But the interest in Sara began to lag, and choice seats fell to $5, and then to $4, and at last they came down to $2 and $3, which is not unreasonable. Many very fair seats have been sold at from $1 to $1.50. The speculators are out of pocket, and their nefarious schemes have ended as they fully deserved to end. It is said that on the second and third night of her engagement, there were four or five hundred vacant seats. This will have the effect to discourage ticket speculation, and to bring the price of tickets within the bounds of reason. The American people are some times easily humbugged, but they show signs of improvement, at least in New York. Bernhardt is no doubt a great actress. Her power over an audience may be at times indescribable, but the people will not permit themselves to pay extortionate prices to see Sara, whose chief notoriety is being the mother of four "little accidents."

Every reasonable person who keeps abreast with the times, and closely watches the progress of political events, will be forced to the natural conclusion, that, as present constituted, the Democratic party can never become the dominant party in this country. This fact not only strikes the Republicans very forcibly, but the better class of Democrats, those who are seriously pondering the results of the November election, and the cause which directly led to those results, are now becoming convinced that the Democratic party as now managed, has no business in this country. For twenty years the party has tried to elect a President, and even with a solid South in its favor at the last two elections, it has failed. The great North is as solid for the Republican party as the old slave States are solid for the Democracy. The solidity of the South can do the Democrats no good. They have lost the confidence of the North. They are not united. They have no principles that command respect. Their managers are the lowest political demagogues in the country. They are after spoils, and spoils only. Their record is so bad as a party, that the greatest damage that can be done the party is to publish its straight record. They have tried to face both ways, and to be all things to all men. With no hope of getting into power with these things hanging like a dead weight to the party, the question has been raised as to what the Democrats will do. "The party has received notice that it is not wanted in the North, and to change the complexion of the party and to divest it of the odium which attaches to it, is a question which just now agitates the minds of the more sober-minded and cautious Democrats. They have been taught a severe lesson in the recent campaign, and they feel its force. Whether to disband and let the party scatter, or whether to reorganize on a new basis and cut loose from its past record, and virtually organize a new party, is one of the questions upon which the Democratic magnates cannot agree.

IN A COAL PIT.

Terrible Explosion and Loss of Life in a Nova Scotia Coal Pit.

Special to the Gazette. SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 13.—A. M.—Everything is in great confusion, and it is impossible to get correct information. As far as known, forty-seven men and boys were in the bond and are supposed to be lost. Thirty-three of these were married men, some with large families. Searching parties cannot get in very far on account of masses of coal blocking up the way in all directions. Messrs. J. Hudson, of the Albion mines, Greene, of the Vale, and S. Poole, of the Acadia, went down the pit this morning. One body was recovered, and two were seen by the explorers. Several dead horses were found. None of the miners on the north side were injured, and quite a number of them were surprised at the crowd at the mouth of the pit when they came up to dinner, not having any idea that such a terrible fate had befallen their fellow workmen. Messrs. Lindsay, Greene, Simpson, and Poole, who went down in the south side for any distance, on account of the after-dinner, there being no air through the side, as all the doors had been blown down by the blast. They found some bodies, but could not identify them. All the horses in the pit, twenty-nine in number, are dead. It is feared another explosion will occur this afternoon, when the pit gathers gas again.

The district lies immediately south of the town of New Glasgow, in Pictou county, on the north shore of Nova Scotia. The area of the field may be estimated at about thirty-five miles, and it extends from a point near Sutherland's river to the Middle River of Pictou. From this region comes the best bituminous coal. The main seam has been worked for several years at the Albion mines by the Halifax Coal Company. The Acadia seam of Westville is operated by the Acadia Coal Company, working in that region. The Ford Pit, the most important and extensive mine in the great coal basin of East River, is divided into the north and south slopes. The north slope extends for about a mile and three-quarters from the mouth of the pit and then south over a mile. Hence, most of the coal covered in the north slope today escaped injury. It was in these same workings, in pits now abandoned, that the great fire occurred in 1851. At that time it was found necessary to let in the waters of the East River to extinguish the fire. This, however, is the first serious explosion that has taken place in the Ford pit while it has been managed by the Halifax Mining company since they obtained the property in 1872. About two months ago the workings of one of the old pits were tapped, and the water burst through, destroying a large amount of property, but no life.

Just one month ago yesterday, the water broke through again in a different quarter, and swept down the slope like a torrent, carrying cars and horses and men before it. On this occasion six men lost their lives, and so a great amount of debris accumulated at the bottom of the pit that nearly a week elapsed before all the bodies were recovered.

BACKING DOWN.

Action of the Democratic Committee on the Barium Fraud Cry.

New York, Nov. 12.—The Executive committee of the Democratic National committee held a private meeting to-night, which was not over until midnight.

After washing their hands as much as they possibly could of the Moray letter, the committee adopted the following, which shows how completely Barium has backed down on the fraud issue:

Whereas, Allegations of fraud in various States, and especially in the State of New York, have been brought to the notice of this committee:

Resolved, That this committee has no jurisdiction over a local violation of election laws; but it recommends the several Democratic committees of the States where those frauds have been committed to investigate them with a view to exposures of violations of law, and their prompt and just punishment. In relation to the duties of courts, or of Congress, in the premises, the committee is not and cannot be charged with any responsibility.

A resolution was also passed tendering the thanks of the committee to W. H. Barium (Chairman), to the Advisory committee, and to the officers of the committee for the efficient and faithful manner in which they performed their respective duties.

BARNEY MACAULEY.

He is Brought Into Court and Discharged.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 12.—Barney Macauley, arrested on a capias by McElpatrick, of Louisville, for debt for services as architect of the theater, spent the night in jail, declining to allow Mr. English to become his bondsman. He was brought before Judge Hobson this morning on a writ of habeas corpus. In response to questions, Macauley stated that he was a citizen of the world, voted nowhere in particular; had not even voted for the "Sheriff of Jarvis Section"; that beyond his wearing apparel, a few dollars in cash, a watch which, beyond the monogram on the case engraved by order of Mrs. Macauley, had no intrinsic value, he was possessed of nothing in the world. He is under contract to Mr. Fletcher, manager of the company, at a salary of $100 per week, and his overdraw, with him to the amount of $300. He declared he had no interest whatever in the Louisville Theater, now managed by his brother John, to whom he said he did not speak on account of the manner in which he had been treated. After the hearing Mr. Macauley was discharged.

SUIT FOR POSSESSION.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.—In the United States court, the Milwaukee and Berlin Railway Company have sued the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Co. to redeem foreclosure of sale to the latter company of what was formerly known as the Milwaukee and Horicon Railway, which was sold to Russell Sage in 1870, and by him deeded to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company. At the time of the sale H. Demorest had judgment against the Milwaukee and Horicon railway, and was made a party to the suit of foreclosure, but before judgment was taken the bill was dismissed as to Demorest. He subsequently had an execution issued, and the road was sold by the United States marshal, and a deed issued, which deed fell into the hands of plaintiffs, who now sue to redeem the road, and claim for the use of the railway since the first sale.

For those distressing diseases peculiar to women DAY'S KIDNEY PAD is invaluable.
